Of course, what you put on those brochures is crucial. If you need extra support, we'll ask one of our capable staff to help you get that perfect proof you're looking for. Then, the completed work will go on to our highly skilled printers, who will also scrutinize the proof before it ever reaching the printing machines.

Just keep in mind that it's in your best interests to give us the very best photographs of the property, the home's interior and exterior, and your own professional photographs in the right dimensions (to follow) as is possible. You might wish to send a few photos of any unique property selling points to attract your prospective client's attention.

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION:

Your DL card is 1/3 of an A4 size sheet of paper with your choice of thickness available. The thickness is usually determined by the user's intent. Tell us what you have in mind, and we'll be happy to offer our recommendation.

Whether you're looking for a flyer, or a brochure, or something else, we are ready to serve you. The A4 size is perfect for placing inside all those letterboxes. Most realtors cut the A4 in half, resulting in the card becoming an A5 size. Use it as a brochure or flyer, however, realtors primarily use the DL size because it fits into the slot of the letterbox so nicely.

This is our specialty!

We usually have three thicknesses of card, the 200, 250 and 300gsm. At 200gsm, the industry considers paper to be thick enough to be called 'card'.

This 250gsm is our main thickness of card we sell, however, please note: In the sun, it may bend so we'd advise someone like motel personnel that may wish leave their cards out in the sun would probably want to go with something like 300gsm instead.
